Consulting Services

Professional Services Help Your Business Through the Cloud Computing Life Cycle

Moving your business to cloud solutions requires the same due diligence, analysis, planning, and project management as any other significant IT project. With roots firmly in strategic IT consulting, we have the expertise and experience to guide your business through the full life cycle.

Requirements Analysis

The simple question, "What are your requirements?" is often one of the most difficult to answer. Businesses may lack the knowledge or confidence to translate business goals and objectives into operational and technical requirements.

Our principals have more than 45 years of combined experience managing IT and Information Services for small and mid-size enterprises. Combined with our knowledge of "what is possible", we can help businesses define and prioritize technical, operational, and budgetary requirements.

Technical Assessments

Cloud computing is only truly effective when it works in conjunction with your network and your other systems. Technical assessments identify co-existence, integration, and migration issues that would otherwise disrupt cloud computing projects.

Application Selection

With thousands of cloud-based applications from mature and young companies alike, finding the best cloud-based applications can be a daunting task. With a thorough understanding of your requirements and priorities, we can walk you through the full selection process, from finding candidate solutions, to evaluation and pilot, and through contract review and negotiations.

Program and Project Management

Cumulus Global consultant bring more than 45 years of IT program and project management experience. Our team can help your team plan, manage, and complete your cloud solution projects on time and on budget. Beyond managing tasks and timelines, we help oversee vendors and coordinate the many resources that may be involved.
